

Dear Friends,

I make a point of patronizing local businesses and, when I get great service, I go back regularly. (My dry cleaner waits for me to drop off my shirts every other Monday morning!) What I really want are two things: excellent, personal service, and to be known. I want a relationship. My dry cleaner knows about my family, and I know about his.

These experiences of personal service and relationships are what we provide at Temple Judea. Whether you are coming to a Shabbat service, dropping off a child at Religious School, or calling the office to ask a question, the response at Temple Judea will be, "How can we help you?" "How can we help you raise your children to be knowledgeable and committed Jews?" "How can we help you learn more about Judaism?" "How can we help you find some comfort and peace in the synagogue?" We're here to help you explore and express your Jewish commitment. This culture of welcome begins with a smiling face that says, "We're glad you are here."

We are glad you are looking at Temple Judea. The staff, membership, and I will do all we can to help you feel that our congregation is a place where you can feel at home and have many opportunities to participate in a vibrant Jewish community.

Kol tuv (All the best),

Marc Sack

Rabbi Marc Sack